

Fetch Testimonial

Student: One thing that I was feeling today is a desire to create more passion. Because I was thinking too about what you were saying last night about fetch. And I made a couple of trips through the office today to see, who was available just to connect with and made a connection occasionally. It was like, Carolyn was available, but Jay was on the phone, Pada's door was closed....

David: Let me interrupt you right in the beginning here by saying an important thing. It doesn't matter one bit who is available or whether anyone is available. All that matters is that you yourself are giving them your love. You see? This whole fetch thing can happen entirely without anyone being available. Because as I said, you do you little Johnny Appleseed thing, you see. You're running around and you're creating a certain kind of energy out of your heart-will to love. And as I say, if you do a sequence of those you have this fetch going on within yourself. It gathers momentum out of a huge crowd that is assisting you in this, and which is interested in the event. And it gathers momentum out of your heart, which is rejoicing at the fact that you're doing a good thing. It does not require any mortal response at all. You see. Really not. So never feel daunted or dependent on it. It really isn't so.

Student: That's amazing, because basically today I felt light and bright and just good in general, despite my ideas about that. And after work everybody was busy, so I cruised around to see what was happening and was happy about that. I had the feeling that you were talking about, with the intention to love. And that explains it, like you said, it explains why that sense of bigger, or bigness, was there.

David: Yeah. Exactly. That's exactly it. So you did have this experience.

An example of this, and perhaps to a ridiculously extreme degree but nonetheless relevant: If everybody had gone to bed, and you happened not to be sleepy, and then you just happened to walk around and stand in front of each door for a second. And give them that same love intention you might have given to the people in their offices if you were walking around the office, to each door and everyone sleeping within. Just one door at a time, you just went around to all the doors. Then you would have a lot of fetch. You see?

And this could be a very powerful thing. Even though they not only were not directly responding, but in fact they were all asleep.

Student: Oh God, that's wonderful.

David: Is that it for your story? It is a great story.

Student: That is a wonderful explanation. Thank you.
